

Uncover new opportunities for growth with a Discovery Session with City & Guilds

Optimise your learning and skills strategy with our interactive Discovery Session.

Overview

A one-hour, face-to-face discussion, aimed at HR leaders and L&D managers who are seeking to enhance their organisation's learning and development strategy.

Led by one of our experienced client managers, the session is designed to support large employers across various sectors in uncovering the hidden potential within their workforce.

How the session will help you

The session provides an opportunity for you to reflect on your approach to learning and staff development by tapping into our extensive knowledge and experience in working with employers to make an impact.

We will explore areas of strengths and opportunities for improvement within your L&D strategy, while highlighting the support available from City & Guilds to help you drive your workforce forward.

What you will get

You will receive a follow up report that summarises the key insights from the session, identifies the areas where support is available, and offers suggested next steps to aid you in unlocking further growth.

About us

As a global leader in skills development, with over 145 years of experience in training, assessment and skills certification, we understand the challenges large employers face across diverse sectors.

1hr

interactive session

145

years of experience

Crafted

by City & Guilds Skills Development Specialists

What you can expect

Before the session

We will share a short pre-meeting survey for you to complete, helping us determine the focus for the session. This should take about five minutes.

On the day itself

A one-hour, face-to-face, confidential discussion with one of our client managers to explore your current skills strategy.

We will:

- Seek to understand your goals and priorities.
- Identify the areas with the most potential to help you address existing challenges, pain points and barriers.
- Explore practical solutions to help drive improvements for your organisation.
- Collaborate with you to pinpoint actionable next steps and discuss any further support that you may need from City & Guilds.

Follow up and next steps

You will receive your personalised follow up report, which summarises key insights from the session, available areas of support, and suggested next steps to help you unlock further growth.