OVERVIEW

- What does this qualification cover?

This qualification consists of two or three units from a very wide range that could help you to develop your own personal skills, plus the chance to learn skills that will be helpful in work, learned through the context of interesting topics, such as working with animals, plants or undertaking crafts, such as pottery.

The preparing for work units include topics such as communication, healthy living, personal finance and working as part of a group. They could help you to develop your own personal skills, and those used to interact with other people. They could be helpful if you want to go onto further study, living independently and potentially supported work.

There are a wide range of units within the following areas that you can achieve: Horticulture, Animal Care, Horse Care, Floristry, Conservation, Metalwork, Woodwork, Painting and Decorating, Pottery, Recycling, Vehicle Maintenance and Construction. These units will help you to develop work-related skills, learned through the context of vocational areas, depending upon which areas interest you the most.

You can choose to take units from any part of the qualification. The choice of units will reflect the things that you are most interested in.

This is a Framework qualification.
