Content coverage and mapping

Occupational Standards

This qualification has been developed to cover 100% of the knowledge, skills and behaviours (KSBs) in the Occupational Standard.

The content within this qualification has been amplified to reflect the KSBs. Detailed mapping to the KSBs can be found in Appendix 2 within this qualification handbook.

TQT comprises of the following two elements:

- 1) the number of hours that an awarding organisation has assigned to a qualification for guided learning
- 2) an estimate of the number of hours a learner will reasonably be likely to spend in preparation, study or any other form of participation in education or training, including assessment, which takes place as directed by – but, unlike guided learning, not under the immediate guidance or supervision of – a lecturer, supervisor, tutor or other appropriate provider of education or training.

Centre requirements

Approval

Full approval

To offer this qualification, new centres will need to gain both centre and qualification approval. Please refer to the document Centre Approval Process: Quality Assurance Standards for further information.

Centre staff should familiarise themselves with the structure, content and assessment requirements of the qualification before designing a course programme.

Resource requirements

Centre staffing

City & Guilds expects this qualification to be delivered by highly skilled practitioners of learning delivery, assessment and quality assurance.

Practitioners involved in the delivery of these qualifications should be able to fulfil all of the following functions to ensure a quality learning experience for the candidate:

- identify training and development needs of the candidate
- plan for, design and develop learning and development opportunities
- provide high quality learning opportunities
- facilitate and support candidate progress and achievements
- assess candidate performance
- review the effectiveness of learning opportunities
- contribute to the quality assurance process.

Therefore, staff delivering these qualifications must be able to demonstrate that they meet the following occupational expertise requirements. They should:

- be occupationally competent or technically knowledgeable in the area(s) for which they are delivering training and have experience of providing training (this knowledge must be at least to the same level as the training being delivered)
- be skilled, knowledgeable and experienced in learning delivery, assessment and quality assurance and have credible experience of providing training
- have recent relevant experience in the specific area they will be assessing
- be able to show current evidence of good practice in accordance with Occupational Standards
- be able to show current evidence of continuing professional development and practice in their vocational area, assessment and quality assurance.

Practitioners must have or be working towards a relevant, recognised assessor and/or quality assurance qualification appropriate to role and the qualifications being delivered, for example:

- for Assessors: the Level 3 Certificate in Assessing Vocational Achievement, A1 Assess Candidate Performance Using a Range of Methods or D32/33 Assess Candidate Performance and Assess Candidates Using Differing Sources of Evidence
- for Internal Quality Assurers: the Level 4 Award in the Internal Quality Assurance of Assessment Processes, the Level 4 Certificate in Leading the Internal Quality Assurance of Assessment Processes and Practice, V1 Conduct Internal Quality Assurance of the Assessment Process or D34 Internally Verify the Assessment Process
- Internal Quality Assurers should also hold a recognised assessor qualification.

Physical resources

Centres must be able to demonstrate that they have access to the equipment and technical resources required to deliver this qualification and its assessment.

Quality assurance

Approved centres must have effective quality assurance systems to ensure optimum delivery and assessment of qualifications. Quality assurance includes initial centre approval, qualification approval and the centre's own internal procedures for monitoring quality. Centres are responsible for internal quality assurance and City & Guilds is responsible for external quality assurance. All external quality assurance processes reflect the minimum requirements for verified and moderated assessments, as detailed in the Centre Assessment Standards Scrutiny (CASS), section H2 of Ofqual's General Conditions. For more information on both CASS and City & Guilds Quality Assurance processes visit: the What is CASS? and Quality Assurance Standards documents on the City & Guilds website.

For this qualification, centres must develop a sampling strategy and plan which must be implemented by all those undertaking the internal quality assurance role. The IQA strategy must contain:

- Sample planning based on the principles of CAMERA ie plans must include the sampling a range of:
 - Candidates
 - Assessors
 - Methods of assessment
 - Evidence
 - Records of assessment
 - Assessment sites

The IQA strategy must also contain details relating to:

- effective communication
- interim sampling
- summative sampling
- monitoring of assessor practice (including observation)
- standardisation activities
- sound administration.

Whoever is responsible for internal quality assurance in a centre will need to ensure that all factors related to quality assurance are covered in the centre. These include ensuring that:

- quality assurance systems are 'fit for purpose' and do actually monitor the quality of the learner journey
- quality assurance sampling is planned and carried out throughout the learner journey and not just at the end of the assessment period
- learning and training delivered models 'best practice' and meets all requirements – and that this is monitored
- assessors are regularly observed carrying out the assessment process
- assessors are supported, get feedback on their practice and take part in standardisation activities
- record keeping is maintained in line with requirements
- all team members maintain appropriate CPD year on year.

For further details and guidance on the internal quality assurance requirements and procedures, please refer to the Quality Assurance Standards documents on the City & Guilds website.

External quality assurance for the qualification will be provided by City & Guilds EQA process. EQAs are appointed by City & Guilds to approve centres and to monitor the assessment and internal quality assurance carried out by centres. External quality assurance is carried out to ensure that assessment is valid and reliable, and that there is good assessment practice in centres.

The role of the EQA is to:

- provide advice and support to centre staff
- monitor delivery and assessment practice
- ensure the quality and consistency of assessments within and between centres by the use of systematic sampling
- provide feedback to centres and to City & Guilds.

For further details and guidance on the external quality assurance requirements and procedures, please refer to the Quality Assurance Standards documents on the City & Guilds website.

Occupational knowledge and competence requirement

Assessors

Assessment against the qualification content is a matter of skilled professional judgement, drawing on a range of evidence from the assessment process. The occupational expertise requirements of those who will perform assessment and roles as set out in the section ‘Resource Requirements – Centre staffing’ are designed to provide confidence that the judgements made will be professionally justified. It is important, therefore, that centres understand and comply with these requirements.

Assessors should only assess in their acknowledged area of technical or occupational competence, drawing on expert witness testimony where necessary.

The assessment principles require that assessors for content that includes workplace assessment must be capable of carrying out the full requirements of the content they are assessing. This means that they will themselves have carried out the work tasks that are the subject of assessment or managed others in that role. In addition to occupational expertise, assessors will need to have expertise in making assessments of competence using a range of assessment techniques, including observation. Those who assess content that relate to knowledge and understanding must themselves have knowledge relevant to content that they are assessing. Those who are occupationally competent will also be occupationally knowledgeable. This occupational competence should be maintained annually through clearly demonstrable continuing learning and professional development.

Many teachers have expertise in observing and assessing the performance of others against professional standards in a regulated and highly scrutinised environment; they could be doing so in the context of statutory performance management, as an induction tutor for Newly Qualified Teachers, or as a mentor for trainee teachers. Their judgements will have an impact on the career, pay and progression of others so must be demonstrably fair and rigorous. City & Guilds takes the view that, suitably supported, teachers may contribute to the assessment process of the qualification by providing observation reports and witness testimonies to inform an assessor’s assessment decision, if they can evidence the necessary expertise in assessment practice.

Centres must ensure that all their assessors continue to maintain the currency of their occupational competency and/or knowledge through continuing learning and professional development.

Internal Quality Assurers

Internal quality assurance is key to ensuring that the assessment of evidence is of a consistent and appropriate quality. Those carrying out internal quality assurance must be occupationally competent in the area they are assuring and be qualified to make quality assurance decisions as defined previously in this section. Centres must ensure that all their Internal Quality Assurers continue to maintain the currency of their occupational competency through continuing learning and professional development.

Expert witnesses

The breadth and range of activities covered by this qualification means that the assessor may occasionally find it necessary to draw on the testimony of expert witnesses as part of the assessment process. Expert witnesses may only be used to address any gaps in the technical and occupational competence of assessors, and for observing confidential or highly sensitive activities that are not appropriate for assessors to observe.

Expert witnesses can be drawn from a wide range of people who can attest to performance in the workplace. Organisations can support the assessment process by encouraging and supporting members of staff to act as expert witnesses. A qualified assessor will make the final judgement about a candidate's competence based on testimony provided by the expert witness together with other corroborating evidence. An expert witness must:

- have a working knowledge of the area of the qualification content for which they are providing witness testimony
- be occupationally competent in their area of expertise
- have either a qualification that includes assessment of workplace performance and/or a professional work role which involves evaluating the everyday practice of staff.

Experienced Teaching Assistants, Higher Level Teaching Assistants and Teachers might act as expert witnesses.

Continuing professional development (CPD)

Centres are expected to support their staff in ensuring that their knowledge remains current of the occupational area and of best practice in delivery, mentoring, training, assessment and quality assurance, and that it takes account of any national or legislative development.

Candidate entry requirements

Educational requirements

There are no formal educational entry requirements for this qualification. However, before registering candidates, centres will need to satisfy themselves that candidates will be able to evidence all of the qualification content by the end of the qualification period.

It is important that centres carry out robust initial assessment to ensure that candidates have an appropriate standard of English and mathematics skills to support their own learners before they start their qualification. Therefore, it is important that centres have in place processes for assessing candidates' basic English and mathematics skills levels and a mechanism to support them to improve these skills where necessary.

Placement requirements

A condition of undertaking this qualification is that candidates have a work placement in an appropriate educational setting. Whilst candidates may be working in an employed or voluntary capacity, it is important that they will be able to meet the requirements of the qualification content whilst in the workplace.

The placement must last for the duration of the qualification. It is recommended that candidates spend at least two days each week in the placement.

Some knowledge aspects of the qualification relate to 'schools' and 'children' and whilst candidates may not be placed working with children in schools at the time of taking this qualification, the qualification is generic and would qualify successful candidates to work across age groups. It is therefore necessary to ensure relevant knowledge is gained across all settings where Teaching Assistants might work.

As we cannot expect candidates to have placements in more than one organisation, evidence relating to skills and behaviours will relate only to their setting. The qualification content relating to knowledge, evidenced across a broader spectrum, should offer confidence to employers that a Teaching Assistant who has successfully completed this qualification will be able to transfer this knowledge to other settings.

Mentor requirements

There is a requirement for each candidate to have a mentor – this could be the class teacher, the special educational needs and disabilities coordinator (SENDCO) or another experienced person in the placement organisation. The mentor must:

- have a working knowledge of the qualification content
- be occupationally competent in their area of expertise
- have any qualification that includes assessment of workplace performance and/or a professional work role which involves evaluating the everyday practice of staff.

A mentor could also be a qualified/experienced Level 3 Teaching Assistant (as identified by senior management in the setting), a Higher Level Teaching Assistant (HLTA) or a Teacher, including staff in the organisation's Senior Leadership Team (SLT).

Age restrictions

These qualifications are not approved for use by candidates under the age of 19. City & Guilds cannot accept any registrations for candidates under the age of 19.

Induction

It is recommended that centres provide a planned induction programme, so the candidate fully understands:

- the requirements of the qualification
- their responsibilities as a candidate
- the responsibilities of the centre.

This information should be recorded on a learning contract.

Centres must make candidates aware of the meaning of plagiarism and the centre's plagiarism policy. They must also ensure that candidates reference and correctly cite any information that is not their own, which they use to support their own work.

Induction sessions should also be used to:

- help the candidates to feel part of a community
- connect them with peers and learning
- help with well-being by describing what provision is in place to support them.

Initial assessment

An initial assessment of each candidate should be made before the start of their programme to identify:

- if the candidate has any specific learner or learning needs that they might need support with

- the level of English and mathematics skills that the candidate has, to ensure they have the language, literacy and numeracy skills necessary to achieve the qualification
- any support and guidance they may need when working towards their qualification
- whether the qualification is appropriate for the candidate to undertake.

Initial assessment provides the evidence to determine the starting point of learning and assessment.

Each candidate must have a clearly defined Personal Development Plan showing the outcome of the initial assessment and which links to all future development planning required in the Professional Development unit.

Assessment planning

All candidates should have assessment plans that identify when and how assessment will be carried out. Assessors should have a thorough knowledge of the qualification and its content and be able to give candidates a clear understanding of what they are being assessed on, what methods will be used and what evidence they need to produce. As the qualification includes workplace assessment, assessors should get to know the candidate and their placement and take account of their job role and circumstances, such as who they work with, other staff, individuals and groups.

The candidate's mentor must also be actively involved in the planning of training and assessment and must be involved at each stage of the candidate's progress.

Access arrangements and reasonable adjustments

City & Guilds has considered the design of this qualification and its assessments in order to best support accessibility and inclusion for all learners. We understand however that individuals have diverse learning needs and may require reasonable adjustments to fully participate. Reasonable adjustments, such as additional time or alternative formats, may be provided to accommodate learners with disabilities and support fair access to assessment.

Access arrangements are adjustments that allow candidates with disabilities, special educational needs, and temporary injuries to access the assessment and demonstrate their skills and knowledge without changing the demands of the assessment. These arrangements must be made before assessment takes place.

The Equality Act 2010 requires City & Guilds to make reasonable adjustments where a disabled person would be at a substantial disadvantage in undertaking an assessment.

It is the responsibility of the centre to ensure at the start of a programme of learning that candidates will be able to access the requirements of the qualification.

Please refer to the JCQ access arrangements and reasonable adjustments and 'Access arrangements - when and how applications need to be made to City & Guilds' for more information. Both are available on the City & Guilds website.

Delivering the qualification

Centre staff should familiarise themselves with the structure, content and assessment requirements of the qualification before designing a programme.

Whilst centres may design programmes of study in any way which best meets the needs and capabilities of their candidates whilst satisfying the requirements of the qualification, candidates must start the programme with unit 301 Professional Development as this unit covers the journey of the Teaching Assistant. It is where candidates explain who they are, their previous experiences and why they want to complete this qualification. The unit runs like a thread throughout the duration of the qualification with candidates visiting and re-visiting the unit to record the successes, challenges and key learning points of their journey.

There is no expectation from City & Guilds that this qualification should be delivered in a formal classroom environment. Centres are encouraged to adopt a flexible delivery approach appropriate to the needs of adult candidates. Centres must ensure that they cover the knowledge, skills and behaviours of the Occupational Standard sufficiently to enable candidates to be successful.

It is recommended that the delivery and assessment of these qualifications should be approached holistically whenever possible.

In most centres, learning will be delivered through a combination of:

- applied practice
- coaching
- experience
- training
- mentoring support and advice
- observation.

The provision of learning opportunities remains the responsibility of the centre (not the candidate). Centres must ensure they have the appropriate staff teams to deliver learning by the methods they decide, always meeting candidate needs. Formative assessment of each candidate's progress will monitor their development and indicate when summative assessment is appropriate. Summative assessment must not take place until the candidate is deemed to be ready.

Tracking candidate progress

Regular reviews with candidates, involving the candidate's mentor and assessor, should be carried out to measure progress towards achievement of the qualification and maintain progress.

Feedback from the mentoring process will contribute to the review process where confidentiality allows.

Reviews should take account of:

- actions agreed at the last meeting
- progress made in relation to the Professional Development Plan
- assessments undertaken
- any problems or obstacles encountered and how they will be addressed
- any changes to the candidate or placement circumstances.

Progress reviews should also be used to check that the candidate understands and is comfortable with the assessment process, knows what progress they have made towards achievement of the qualification and that they understand the appeals process.

Inclusion and diversity

City & Guilds is committed to improving inclusion and diversity within the way we work and how we deliver our purpose which is to help people and organisations develop the skills they need for growth.

More information and guidance to support centres in supporting inclusion and diversity through the delivery of City & Guilds qualifications can be found here:

Inclusion and diversity | City & Guilds \(cityandguilds.com\)

The content of the City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) (5330-03) prepares candidates to support learners from a range of different backgrounds, experiences and with diverse needs. Theoretical and practical aspects of inclusion and diversity are included in the key themes of this qualification, particularly in:

- Stages of development for children and young people
- Delivery of Learning
- Assessment
- Communication, relationships and role modelling
- Learning and Support
- Management of pastoral and academic behaviour

The qualification requires candidates to consider how the needs of Special Educational Needs and Disabilities (SEND) learners could be met in teaching and learning contexts (Unit 305 Delivery of learning). In the assessment guidance, the Special Educational Needs and Disabilities Coordinator (SENDSCO) is recognised as a suitable person to act as the candidate mentor (See Centre Requirements – Continuing professional development). Where applicable, the SENDSCO is also recognised as an important source of candidate support and feedback (Unit 301 Professional Development).

The Occupational Standard requirement to respect and promote equality, diversity, and inclusion, is included in the qualification content within Unit 305 Delivery of learning, Unit 307 Communication, relationships and role modelling and Unit 308 Learning and support. The qualification requires candidates to understand how to use a range of resources to support diverse learner needs within a setting.

Assessors and mentors involved in the delivery of this qualification are required to follow appropriate policies and practices in regard to candidates with additional needs (see City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) Assignment Pack – Personal Development Plan and Personal Development Plan Review forms).

Assessment of candidates allows appropriate flexibility to meet the needs of different educational settings. Within the requirements outlined in the City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) Assessor Guidance document for this qualification, a diverse range of supporting candidate evidence is permitted, and for the assignments, centres may use their own format, templates or documentation to present candidate evidence.

Sustainability

City & Guilds are committed to net zero. Our ambition is to reduce our carbon emissions by at least 50% before 2030 and develop environmentally responsible operations to achieve net zero by 2040 or sooner if we can. City & Guilds is committed to supporting qualifications that support our customers to consider sustainability and their environmental footprint.

More information and guidance to support centres in developing sustainable practices through the delivery of City & Guilds qualifications can be found here:

Our Pathway to Net Zero | City & Guilds \(cityandguilds.com\)

Centres should consider their own carbon footprint when delivering this qualification and consider reasonable and practical ways of delivering this qualification with sustainability in mind. This could include:

- using electronic platforms for training, review and one- to- one meetings, where appropriate, as part of a blended approach to delivery
- minimising use of printed materials and supporting the use of electronic versions where possible, for example using electronic forms of submission for candidate work to be assessed
- reviewing purchasing and procurement processes (such as buying in bulk to reduce the amount of travel time and energy, considering and investing in the use of products that can be reused, instead of the use of disposable or single use consumables)
- considering the environmental policies of potential suppliers and partner organisations when making purchasing or procurement decisions
- implementing responsible waste procedures (ensuring that waste is minimised and recycling is in place wherever possible).

3 Assessment

Summary of assessment methods

The qualification will be assessed through a portfolio of evidence.

The following two documents are mandatory for the assessment of this qualification:

- City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) (5330-03) Assignment Pack
- City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) (5330-03) Assessor Guidance

Assessment method	Primary evidence method	Grading	Approach to making assessment decisions	Quality assurance approach
Externally set assignments	Assignments and candidate record forms	Pass / Refer	Internal assessment by the centre assessor	Internally quality assured by the centre, externally quality assured by City & Guilds
Externally set observation tasks	Observation tracking sheet and record forms	Pass / Refer	Internal assessment by the centre assessor	Internally quality assured by the centre, externally quality assured by City & Guilds

The primary evidence for the knowledge elements of the qualification content is assignments set by City & Guilds and provided in the separate document City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) (5330-03) Assignment Pack.

The primary evidence for the practical elements of the qualification content is observation of practice, for which City & Guilds provide a mandatory tracking sheet and candidate record template in the separate document City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) (5330-03) Assessor Guidance.

The assessment of behaviours will be covered in either the assignments or observation or both, and may also be included in the supporting evidence, depending on the behavioural element being assessed.

The mapping in Appendix 2 of this document shows clearly where each of the Occupational Standard's knowledge, skills, and behaviours (KSBs) need to be met.

Please refer to section 'Portfolio of Evidence' within this document for further information on the supporting evidence that may be included in the portfolio.

Portfolio of Evidence

To complete this qualification, candidates must successfully complete a portfolio of evidence. A portfolio of evidence is a repository for the work that best demonstrates that candidates can apply the knowledge and skills, and demonstrate the behaviours identified in the qualification content.

Portfolios come in many forms – some are electronic, some paper based, others a combination of both. It is for the candidate and assessor to decide the best way to store the evidence generated throughout the qualification. It is recommended that candidates keep evidence to confirm that qualification content has been met and relevant supporting evidence in the portfolio, also that they keep a separate file for anything else that they wish to keep relating to their time of learning.

The portfolio of evidence for this qualification will be in two parts – one part will contain evidence showing that all knowledge aspects of the qualification content is met. A second part will be a series of observation reports, covering all skills aspects of the qualification content. All observations must be numbered and indexed on the observation tracking sheet.

Behaviours listed in the qualification content will be covered in either the assignment or observation or both and may also be included in the supporting evidence depending on the behavioural element being assessed. The mapping in Appendix 2 of this document shows clearly where each of the Occupational Standard's knowledge, skills, and behaviours (KSBs) need to be met.

All evidence in the portfolio must be clearly labelled and mapped to the qualification content. Candidates will start to build their portfolio of evidence from on the first day of their programme.

Before any assessment decisions are made, all candidates must sign a declaration of authenticity, confirming that the evidence produced is their own work. Centres must ensure that they include the topics of plagiarism and collusion in their induction and must also ensure all candidates are fully aware of how to reference and cite any information that they wish to use to support their own evidence.

It is the centre's responsibility to check for plagiarism and they must ensure there is a plagiarism policy in place that they are prepared to instigate if plagiarism is suspected or found. Centres must also be aware of the requirement to notify their External Quality Assurer (EQA) and City and Guilds directly if plagiarism is suspected or found.

Possible evidence sources

A portfolio of evidence will typically include numerous pieces of evidence – it must contain sufficient evidence to demonstrate the knowledge, skills and behaviours required for the occupational standard.

Evidence must include:

- City & Guilds externally set assignments (including candidate records for each assignment)
- City & Guilds provided observation records (for each observation conducted) and observation tracking sheet.

Other forms of supporting evidence may include:

- provider-produced worksheets and activities
- annotated photographs
- video clips (maximum total duration = 10 minutes)
- workplace documentation/records, for example session plans, resources used with, and adapted for, learners in the setting.

Other evidence sources are permitted, subject to the following requirements: the evidence provided must cover the relevant qualification content and be valid and attributable to the candidate. The evidence provided must contain a declaration from the provider confirming this.

Where secondary evidence is used, this must cross-reference to the content element for which it provides evidence of the candidate's learning.

Guidance for conducting the assignments

For the assessment of knowledge, (and some behaviours), the City & Guilds externally set assignments must be used as the primary assessment method.

City and Guilds has provided an assignment pack containing assignments to cover the contents of each unit. Centres must be clear that it remains the assessor's responsibility to ensure that sufficient, valid evidence is recorded for each candidate to justify the achievement of each assignment.

The assignments are provided in the separate document City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) (5330-03) Assignment Pack.

Centres may use their own format, templates or documentation to present candidate evidence. Centres must not change task instructions nor the mapping requirements of tasks. For example, a candidate could choose to respond to one of the tasks orally by delivering a presentation which would be a different mode/format but still presenting the same evidence to the same standard and meeting the same content elements.

The tasks within the assignments may be completed electronically or be paper-based or a combination of both. Whilst written evidence is expected, evidence may be via recorded discussions, however where used this must be recorded and stored on a suitable device (ie not a personal mobile phone) and must be accessible, intelligible and auditable. Centres must be mindful that when agreeing the use of spoken or other forms of recorded evidence, the IQA and EQA must review the recordings, which affects the manageability of the quality assurance of the assessment and, if the recording quality poor, it is not possible to make reliable judgements. The assessor's planning sheet and the candidate's prepared responses for the recorded discussion should also be presented as supporting evidence.

Candidates may wish to meet some of the evidence requirements by writing a reflective diary entry. In this event, candidates must cross reference the diary entry to the relevant task. There is a template provided that can be used for this purpose entitled Professional Development Log/Diary.

Where the unit content includes legislation or regulations, centres must refer to up-to-date legislation or regulations at the time when teaching and assessment is taking place.

Some aspects of the assignments relate specifically to 'schools' and 'children'. Whilst candidates may not be in a placement in which they are working with children in schools at the time of taking this qualification, the qualification is generic and it would qualify successful candidates to work across age groups. The qualification content enables candidates to gain relevant knowledge across all settings where Teaching Assistants might work.

Assessing candidate evidence for the assignments

The intention is that the assignments will be carried out on an ongoing basis throughout the duration of the programme of study. Summative assessment must only take place once the candidate is ready to undertake the assessment.

When assessing candidate evidence in order to make valid assessment decisions, assessors must refer to the minimum pass requirements for the tasks. The outcomes of each task must be recorded in the Candidate Record document.

- A candidate will be awarded a pass for a task where the provided evidence meets the minimum pass requirements.
- A refer outcome will apply where the provided evidence does not meet the minimum pass requirements.

When assessing the assignments, consideration should be given to the setting in which the candidate is placed. Assignments, as with all evidence for achievement, are subject to internal and external quality assurance.

For each assignment, assessors must complete a candidate record to record achievement. Any evidence submitted by the candidate for the assignments should be clearly marked with the task number and should be signed and dated by the candidate. This will provide a clear audit trail for grading and will fulfil authenticity requirements. Feedback between the assessor and the candidate should also be documented and form part of the audit trail. This will include any feedback or suggestions that result in the generation of additional evidence to meet the task requirements. Assignments, as with all evidence for achievement, are subject to internal and external quality assurance.

The assignment and candidate records are provided in the separate document City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) (5330-03) Assignment Pack.

Resubmission opportunities for the assignments

Candidates submitting evidence that does not sufficiently meet the minimum pass requirements are allowed to re-submit their evidence following detailed feedback from their assessor.

Candidates do not need to retake the whole assignment. Candidates only need to resubmit the task.

The assessor must communicate a realistic deadline for the candidate to resubmit the evidence. When deciding on the deadline, the assessor must take into consideration appropriate factors according to individual candidate needs. The IQA and EQA must be able to access the feedback provided.

Prior to re-taking any task or assignment, it is advised that the candidate supplements their assessor's full and detailed feedback by engaging in additional learning or development that will support them in preparing to re-take the assessment.

In the event of a candidate being unsuccessful in multiple attempts to meet the minimum pass requirements for the tasks, then the assessor, in discussion with the candidate's mentor and centre IQA, must make a professional decision as to whether the candidate should continue with the qualification. This decision must be documented, along with supporting evidence for the decision and the information must be available for EQA purposes.

For full details on conducting and assessing the assignments please refer to the separate document, City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) (5330-03) Assignment Pack.

Guidance for conducting the observations

The practical elements of the qualification will be assessed through a series of direct observations. In order to record evidence of the observations, City & Guilds provide an observation tracking sheet and observation report template. These are both mandatory documents. These documents can be found in the separate document, City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) (5330-03) Assessor Guidance which is available on the City & Guilds website.

- All content elements indicated on the observation tracking sheet must be directly observed and assessed by the qualification assessor. The content elements covered include all skills and observable behaviours.
- All content elements indicated on the observation tracking sheet must be evidenced through observation; no other form of assessment of that content element is permitted.
- Observations must be face-to-face and at the ratio of one candidate per assessor.
- Observations must be carried out until consistent competence for each of the content elements on the observation tracking sheet is observed and can be confirmed by the assessor. The content elements and corresponding KSBs are shown in column two of the observation tracking sheet. The pass descriptor for each content element is provided in the observation tracking sheet and sets out the minimum standard required to pass.

- Expert witness observations can only be used to observe any gaps in the technical and occupational competence of assessors which may occasionally occur, and for observing confidential or highly sensitive activities that are not appropriate for the qualification assessor to observe. (See guidance relating to observations carried out by expert witnesses).
- Expert witness observations must be passed to the qualification assessor to make the decision of whether the candidate has met the requirements of the content element or not.
- Content elements that have not been observed within standard practice may be assessed through assessor targeted observations. These are observations arranged specifically to capture those content elements that either due to the nature of the content element or circumstances in the setting, could not be observed as part of the holistic observations.

Assessing candidate evidence for the observations

The following two mandatory documents must be used in the assessment of the observations:

- Observation report template
- Observation tracking sheet

These can be found in the separate document, City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) (5330-03) Assessor Guidance which is available on the City & Guilds website.

An observation report must be completed for each observation that takes place. Observation reports, whether completed by the qualification assessor or, on rare occasions, by the expert witness, are mandatory documents which must not be adapted or altered from the template provided and must detail exactly what is seen by the observer.

There must be an observation report completed for every observation carried out.

The observations may take place at any appropriate time, however we advise centres that the first observation should be within the first two months of the start of the course (except during holiday periods) and that sufficient observations need to occur to ensure assessors are satisfied candidates show consistent competence over the period of the programme of study.

Use of the observation report template

Observation reports must contain clear statements from the assessor about what has been observed and the statements must be directly linked to the relevant content element(s).

Observations must be suitably spaced and scheduled to allow the candidate to show evidence of the skills and behaviours they have developed at the appropriate points as they progress through the programme.

All observation reports must be numbered and listed on the observation tracking sheet. Each entry in the observation report must be explicitly linked back to the content element that it evidences.

Where qualification assessors have carried out the observation, the mapping to specific content element(s) must be explicit so the IQA and EQA can confirm their assessment decision.

Where expert witnesses have carried out an observation, the mapping to specific content elements must be explicit to enable the assessor to make the decision of whether the content element has been met, and so the IQA and EQA can confirm that decision.

Use of the observation tracking sheet

The observation tracking sheet is an index to the observation reports completed by assessors. The observation tracking sheet contains all of the content elements which must be assessed by observation. For each content element there is a pass descriptor which sets out the minimum standard required to pass.

Every observation reference number recorded in the observation tracking sheet must be supported by an entry in an observation report that confirms that the requirements of the content element have been met and the tracking sheet must be dated to indicate the occasions when the requirements to pass have been observed.

The observation tracking sheet is a mandatory document. Observations must be carried out until consistent competence for each of the content elements on the observation tracking sheet is confirmed by the assessor.

The assessor will confirm that consistent competence is achieved by indicating this on the observation tracking sheet. It is strongly recommended that observations are holistic and must confirm what the assessor actually sees.

Whilst it is sufficient for candidates to evidence the knowledge aspects of the qualification content only once, skills must be observed more than once in order to ensure consistent competence. Centres must not accept two observations as the lowest permissible requirement and must continue to observe candidate practice until they are confident that consistent competence has been achieved.

Expert witness testimonies may be used to support the assessment of skills and behaviours. The witness must state their relationship to the candidate and must focus their testimony on fact and observations of performance, not opinion. The testimony must be explicitly mapped to the content element it is evidencing and confirm real life instances that the candidate has been involved in.

Re-take opportunities for the observations

If a candidate does not meet the requirements for the skills and observable behaviours assessed by the observations, they are allowed to re-take an observation, following detailed feedback from their assessor.

The assessor must communicate a realistic deadline for evidence of all the skill(s) or behaviour(s) required by observation. When deciding on the deadline, the assessor must take into consideration appropriate factors according to individual candidate needs. The IQA and EQA must be able to access the feedback provided.

Prior to re-taking any observation, it is advised that the candidate supplements their assessor's full and detailed feedback by engaging in additional learning or development that will support them in preparing to re-take the assessment.

In the event of a candidate being unsuccessful in multiple attempts to meet the assessment requirements of the observations, then the assessor, in discussion with the candidate's mentor and centre IQA, must make a professional decision as to whether the candidate should continue with the qualification. This decision must be documented, along with supporting evidence for the decision and the information must be available for EQA purposes.

Grading and claiming results

To pass the qualification, candidates must:

- meet all the minimum pass requirements as stated for each content element on the Observation Tracking Sheet, by meeting each pass descriptor on at least two occasions.
- meet all the minimum pass requirements stated on each of the individual Candidate Records for the assignments.

The minimum pass requirements for the observations are included for centres in the separate document City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) (5330-03) Assessor Guidance.

The minimum pass requirements for the assignment tasks are included for centres in the Candidate Records which form part of the separate document City & Guilds Level 3 Technical Occupational Entry for Teaching Assistants (Certificate) (5330-03) Assignment Pack.

The qualification can only be claimed once the candidate has met the pass requirements for all the assessments in the qualification. Individual units may not be claimed for this qualification. All units must be claimed to achieve the qualification. Certificates of Unit Credit (CUCs) will not be available for this qualification.

Availability of assessments

Summative assessment must not take place until the candidate is deemed to be ready.

Assessors must plan and structure the programme according to the candidate's needs and expected progress. The candidate must be given clear indication and reasonable notice of the expected programme milestones, such as anticipated dates and/or deadlines for any summative assessment.

Assessors must use their professional judgement to decide when candidates are ready for summative assessment. Ongoing formative assessment will contribute to that decision.

Recognition of prior learning (RPL)

Recognition of prior learning (RPL) means using a person's previous experience or qualifications which have already been achieved to contribute to a new qualification. RPL can be used to exempt candidates from areas of learning previously achieved but does not exempt them from assessment.

RPL is allowed and is also sector-specific.

4 Units

Structure of the units

These units each have the following:

- City & Guilds reference number
- unit title
- unit level
- guided learning hours (GLH)
- unit aim
- assessment method
- links to Occupational Standard
- learning outcomes, which are comprised of a number of topics
- unit guidance for delivery and assessment

Guidance for delivery of the units

This qualification comprises a number of units. A unit describes what is expected of a competent person in particular aspects of their job.

Each unit is divided into learning outcomes which describe in further detail the knowledge and skills that a candidate should possess.

Each learning outcome has a set of topics (knowledge, skills or behaviours) that are simple and concise statements that indicate to a candidate something specific that they will be learning in relation to the learning outcome. It should provide clarity to a candidate at a high level on what they should be expecting to learn or be able to do about a specific area of the learning outcome.

Content (what needs to be covered) the content sections define the 'depth and breadth' to which the teaching / learning must be delivered.

It is important that these sections define all the essential content that must be covered for candidates to achieve the learning outcome. It is the information in this section that candidates will be assessed on.

Unit 301

Professional development

Unit level:	3
Guided Learning Hours (GLH):	15
Unit aim:	This unit covers the learning journey towards occupational entry as a Teaching Assistant. It takes into account any previous knowledge and experience prior to undertaking this qualification and any development and learning within the setting supported by others, such as the candidate's mentor or other staff. The unit explores different methods of professional development and the use of recorded, constructive feedback in developing one's own skills, knowledge and behaviour. This unit should be delivered at the beginning of the programme and run like a thread throughout. An initial Professional Development Plan must be completed by the candidate, the mentor and the assessor and will be followed by at least two reviews during the course of the qualification. The review must involve all three parties. There is a requirement for the candidate to keep a diary or log of their learning throughout the programme. When using a diary/log entry to form part of the evidence for any of the content requirements, the entry must be cross referenced to the relevant content element, so it is clear for the assessor/IQA/EQA to see how it relates back to the content of the qualification. Within the Personal Development Plan, the candidate must identify any prior learning or experience that they may have in the use of Information Technology (IT). This could include smart phones, tablets, personal computers and would usually include the use of software such as Word and PowerPoint. The level of IT knowledge and experience is not important at the outset, just that it is recorded. The mentor may help identify these areas.

The candidate will provide a brief summary of entitlement and provision available for each point a) to f). They will also provide evidence of their consideration of the impact those early years settings may have on a learner's future life and learning.

They should summarise the characteristics of the schools and link them to the Key Stages. If the evidence is produced in written form, a short paragraph for each type of school a)-j) will meet this requirement. Delivery should allow for 'any additional in local area' which will maintain currency by allowing the candidate to include any additional types of school that may have emerged at the time teaching and assessment of this qualification is taking place.

Learning outcome 2 is centred on safeguarding. All content elements relating to this unit must be thoroughly evidenced by the candidate. It should be noted that evidence for this learning outcome in no way replaces safeguarding training, and such training is the responsibility of the placement organisation.

Learning outcome 3 relates to online safety and the risks and consequences that can occur. The candidate must show that they have analysed the risks and consequences of learners being online; they will also outline briefly, for example, in short paragraphs, how those risks can be minimised.

Learning outcome 4 explores safety factors linked to organising indoor and outdoor play. The candidate will explain the factors to be considered in the list 4.1.1 a) to j) and then provide a short explanation of how the policies of their placement organisation sets out the expected response to accidents, incidents and illness. In order to further support evidence of contextualised learning, the candidate will add one additional type of emergency that they have been involved in or observed. The additional type of emergency for evidence should be chosen by the candidate.

2.1.1: The candidate will explain the difference between challenging behaviour and inappropriate behaviour.

2.1.2: The candidate will describe the patterns and triggers which may lead to challenging and inappropriate behaviour by learners, including all aspects specified in a) i) to ii) and b) i) to iv). The candidate must consider their own experience or observed experience wherever possible.

2.1.3: The candidate will provide evidence that they are familiar with, and know how to use strategies to manage, both inappropriate behaviour and challenging behaviour by learners. The candidate must explain two strategies for challenging behaviour and two strategies for inappropriate behaviour.

2.1.4: The candidate will explain the actions that can be taken to minimise risk to others.

2.1.5: Inevitably, there will come a time when the procedures to be followed will be outside the remit of the candidate, and a brief explanation of how such behaviours are escalated, will evidence candidate understanding. The explanation could be in the form of a short paragraph.

How a candidate works with learners displaying academic behaviour is equally as important as those displaying challenging and inappropriate behaviour.

3.1.1: The candidate will outline how the characteristics of academic behaviour may present through all stages of learning a) to c).

3.1.2: The candidate will explain how additional learning needs of academic learners are met in the areas stipulated in a) to d). The evidence may be presented in the form of brief paragraphs.

In 3.1.3, the candidate will investigate additional sources of support for academic learners in their own setting and in their own local area and provide a summary of the outcomes of their investigation.

Unit guidance for delivery and assessment

In the context of this unit, 'technology' may include computers, tablets, laptops and other interactive devices or any other current technology relevant to an educational setting.

Apps may be specific to the organisation and might include Scratch for computer programming, Dojo or Class Charts. The placement organisation's website may provide access to Virtual Learning Environments (VLE), different Apps, key organisational policies relating to technology and other important information for parents/carers and learners. Technology is continually evolving and being updated; it is therefore important that delivery and practice reflect the latest technology and Apps applicable to the candidate's setting.

This unit offers opportunities for holistic assessment and efficiencies in delivery across or between other units such as legislation and policy, learning and support and professional development.

1.1.1 and 1.1.2: The candidate must produce a short summary for each of the listed content elements.

1.1.3 requires a summary to show understanding of each of the listed content elements. This could be in the form of a brief paragraph.

For 1.1.4, the technology used could also include the organisation's website, Dojo, class charts or other appropriate items, dependent on technology used within the candidate's setting. The candidate must provide a summary that evidences learning for each of the listed content elements and will include examples of how this is carried out in their placement organisation. Where evidence is being provided in written form, at least one paragraph will be provided for each content element a) to b). Where possible, the candidate should include examples from their experience with their own learners in their placement setting.

2.1.1: Use of technology, computer programs and Apps could also include interactive white boards, computers, tablets, laptops or similar devices and will be dependent on technology used within the candidate's setting. The candidate is required to identify and summarise the key forms of technology that are used to enhance learning in their placement organisation.

For 2.1.2, the candidate must describe each of the listed content elements. This could be in the form of a brief paragraph.

For 2.1.3, the candidate will explain each of the listed content elements. If the evidence is written, a detailed paragraph for each content element is required. The explanation must include examples of how the IT system is used in the candidate's placement organisation.

2.1.4: The candidate must produce a free-flowing self-reflection on their personal experiences of each of the listed content elements. It must include the purpose of the training opportunities and indicate the impact these have had on the candidate's own development for their role. This evidence should be included in the candidate's Professional Development Log/Diary and clearly cross referenced to this unit.

Learning outcome 3 will be assessed by direct observations of the candidate using technology to support teaching and learning. This includes the candidate using technology systems in their own organisation for accessing information, reporting to others and accessing and adapting resources. It also includes supporting learners in their setting to safely access and use age/development appropriate Apps, websites and technology devices to enhance their learning. This will be dependent on technology used in the candidate's setting.

Centre Handbook: Quality Assurance Standards

This document is for all approved centres and provides guidance to support their delivery of our qualifications. It includes information on:

- centre quality assurance criteria and monitoring activities
